Languages & Scripts 1121 A.D.

All characters begin with one native language. Additional languages may be learned if they are available.

Some characters may have more than one native language, depending on their background.

Fluency in a language or script is determined by the character's skill level:

Skill %	Fluency Level	Social Class
90%	Expertise	4 - 6
80%	Mastery	3 - 6
65%	Fluency	1 - 5
50%	Basic Fluency	1 - 3
35%	Rudimentary	1

Starting skills in native languages are influenced by one's social class.

While high levels of fluency are typical among scholars or the wealthy, often the poor hold only basic fluency in their native language.

Choose whatever fluency level you feel is appropriate for your character, based on his background and social class.

Here is a list of all the languages and scripts used during the 12th century.

Different languages were spoken during different times and in different places.

Note that English & French were not spoken during the 12th century!

English came into use during the 16th century, while French appeared in the 17th century.

In the 12th century, French was divided into two kinds, one for the upper classes (Langue d'oil) and one for the lower classes (Langue d'oc).

Instead of English, those living on the British Isles spoke the language of the Norman conquerors (Langue d'oil & Langue d'oc), or a local language such as Cornish, Welsh, or various dialects of Gaelic. Norse languages were also common.

Popular trading languages included zantine Greek, Italian, Langue d'oc. Spanis

Byzantine Greek, Italian, Langue d'oc, Spanish, Portuguese, German, Arabic, Farsi, and the Norse languages (Danish, Icelandic, Norwegian, Swedish).

On the continent, various Germanic languages were common, especially in the Holy Roman Empire.

Classical Latin and Greek were spoken by scholars mostly.
